

Dear Mr Pye,

The opportunity for Senators to pray corporately at the beginning of each Parliamentary day is not just a quaint tradition reflecting the Christian roots of our nation. It actually constitutes the most important parliamentary business because our country cannot be blessed if we turn away from God and do not seek his blessing or counsel.

Please, therefore, recommend that these prayers are retained.

Yours faithfully,