House of Representatives, Canberra.

Honourable Sirs,

Using freely every help I can (as following) I wish to offer some thoughts with reference to “pay equity probe” – as reported page 17 – About the House magazine Issue 34.

(may I say) appearances of apparent apostasy in the civil powers are a feature of the latter days – the notion that women are in every way equal to men not being according to the teaching or tenor of the scriptures.

(may I say) I support policies which further the cause of the sole breadwinner with a family – however many single young women deserve respect for the career their C.V. (entitles).

I understand women (may) have certain occupations in the military - reference (combat roles) and I am wholly against this.

“Equal pay for equal work” is a thought provoking slogan (thus).

Your faithfully,

John A. McLennan
