

As an Australian born in Australia and educated in Australia growing up in a large city where I had friends from many countries, I never thought that I would see the day when we needed to have an inquiry into multiculturalism in Australia.

I grew up believing all people were equal and that were a Christian country.

I expect that if someone wants to live here that they will accept our way of life .

Why do people come here and try and impose their beliefs on us?

We live in a great country, our fathers fought wars for our freedom !!

I believe we live in the best country in the world.

We are a great country built on Christian principles and beliefs let us keep it that way.

May I ask what is meant by the Government's social inclusion agenda???

Is this different to assimilation?

When I look at what is happening all over Europe I see that multiculturalism is a failure ,sadly I see that is happening here in Australia

All I can say is God help us,

I Thank God for the christians in Government who stand up for what they know and believe in to make our country a better place for all people to live in.

Sincerely
