Hi Bev

Just had a guy call the office, [REDACTED], regarding the Child Support Agency (CSA), he wanted his matter passed on to the committee.

He is estranged from his daughter but still pays maintenance, she is 17 years old, she recently left Aust to go to UK to work for an indefinite period of time. He spoke to CSA to see if he still had to continue paying maintenance for her, the officer from CSA rang his ex-wife who told the officer, yes she still wants [REDACTED] to pay until the daughter gets a job overseas. The officer from CSA told [REDACTED] that the ex-wife has the right to do this as it is legislation. [REDACTED] knows that nothing can be done for his case but maybe for future cases like his, as he finds this piece of legislation extremely unfair. [REDACTED]

Thanks

Donna
