

Mr Peter Hanks QC

A member of the Victorian Bar Association, former University law teacher and solicitor, Mr Peter Hanks QC practises predominantly in public law - administrative law and constitutional law.

After practising as a barrister of the Supreme Court of New South Wales for 12 years, Peter was admitted to practice in Victoria in 1976. He signed the Bar Role in 1991, was appointed Queen's Counsel in 1999 and now appears regularly in constitutional and administrative law litigation for Commonwealth and State government agencies, and against those agencies, in the Supreme Court, the Federal Court, the High Court, and the Commonwealth AAT and VCAT.

Peter's extra-curricular experiences include teaching constitutional law at the University of Sydney and Monash University for 25 years and authoring several books on constitutional law and administrative law, including Constitutional Law in Australia (2nd edition) and Australian Constitutional Law (7th edition). He is a principal contributor to Butterworths' High Court and Federal Court Practice and Administrative Law Service.
