

Australian Parliament
Joint Standing Committee on Migration
Submission no. 225

To whom it may concern,

I am writing this to you concerning the inquiry into multiculturalism in Australia.

I and many others believe Australia is the best nation to live in the world. This is because Australia was founded on Christian values, where every person is deemed equal.

My grandfather migrated from Norway to Australia in 1928. He married and assimilated into Australian society very easily. He often told me, when he arrived in Australia he actually sold his shoes to buy some food. He gained employment very quickly and worked all of his working life retiring at 60.

I do not have any issues with people migrating to Australia as long as it is done legally and correctly.

But I do believe that migrants coming to Australia should be made to assimilate into our society with the view on embracing OUR WAY OF LIFE AND OUR VALUES.

I want Australia to remain a country where our moral fibre is protected and embraced by all, to maintain the freedom and Christian values that we have been founded on. That is why we have been so successful as a nation known as the "lucky country" .

Kind Regards,
