* Parts	New Zealand's tariff schedule as of 1 January 2005 contains 35 tariff lines for which the ad valorem tariff rates have been listed as "PARTS" in the accompanying tariff schedule. This indicates that there may be variable tariff rates for goods imported under these tariff lines and that the tariff rates applied will depend on the exact nature of the goods. For example, goods imported under tariff line 4016.99.79 are a type of vehicle part and are subject to the tariff rate applicable to the vehicle for which the part was designed. As another example, goods imported under tariff line 9112.20.00 include clock cases and are subject to the rate applicable to the clock for which the case was designed.
 Specific	New Zealand's tariff schedule as at 1 January 2005 contained 194 tariff lines with specific tariff rates that could apply as an alternative to the ad valorem rate for the same product. Products to which alternative specific tariffs could apply were, therefore, covered by two tariff lines - a tariff line with an ad valorem tariff and a tariff line with an alternative specific tariff. The importer paid whichever rate returned the highest level of duty. On 1 July 2005, the alternative specific tariff lines were removed and are therefore redundant but have been included in this schedule for reasons of transparency. The tariff commitment that applies to these lines is the commitment made on the ad valorem tariff which also applied to this product.
