Plant Protection Agreement for the Asia and Pacific Region

Transmittal of Certified True Copies of the first set of amendments approved by the FAO Council in November 1999

The Director-General of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations has the honour to refer to the Plant Protection Agreement for the Asia and Pacific Region (formerly the Plant Protection Agreement for the South-East Asia and Pacific Region), approved under Article XIV of the FAO Constitution by the FAO Council at its Twenty-third Session in November 1955.

At its Hundred and Seventeenth Session in November 1999, the FAO Council approved two sets of amendments to the Agreement designed to bring the Agreement into line with the new revised Text of the International Plant Protection Convention (IPPC), and the Agreement on the Application of Sanitary and Phytosanitary Measures (SPS Agreement), as well as with modern requirements for plant protection and to strengthen the Asia and Pacific Plant Protection Commission. The Council agreed that such amendments did not involve new obligations for the Contracting Governments and, therefore, pursuant to Article IX.4 of the Agreement, will come into force with respect to all Contracting Governments as from the thirtieth day after acceptance by two-thirds of them.

As requested by the Asia and Pacific Plant Protection Commission, the second set of amendments, providing for the deletion from the Agreement of the detailed Measures to Exclude South American Leaf Blight of Hevea from the Region, set out in Article IV and Appendix B of the Agreement as currently in force (Article XIV and Appendix B of the Revised Agreement) will not be circulated for acceptance until such time as the Director-General is notified by the Secretary of the Commission that a satisfactory regional standard on South American Leaf Blight of Hevea has been adopted by the Commission.

The Director-General of FAO has the pleasure to transmit for acceptance a certified true copy of the Revised Text of the Agreement which includes the first set of amendments only. The amendments approved by the FAO Council at its Eighty-fourth Session in 1983, to provide for an autonomous budget, which are not yet in force, are included as footnotes to the document but are not reflected in the Agreement itself. Acceptance of the attached Revised Text of the Agreement does not imply acceptance of the amendments providing for an autonomous budget.

A sample instrument of acceptance is attached hereto.

PLANT PROTECTION AGREEMENT FOR THE ASIA AND PACIFIC REGION

Revised Agreement Incorporating Amendments approved by the FAO Council in November 1999

(Except Amendments Relating to the South American Leaf Blight of Hevea)¹

PREAMBLE

The Contracting Governments,

- desiring, through cooperative action, to prevent the introduction into and spread within the Asia and Pacific Region of plant pests and to take measures for their control;
- taking fully into account the need to protect plant, human and animal health and the environment;
- taking note of the results of the Uruguay Round of Multilateral Trade Negotiations, in particular the Agreement on the Application of Sanitary and Phytosanitary Measures; and
- recognizing the need for the harmonization of phytosanitary measures, have concluded the following Agreement, within the framework of Article XIV of the Constitution of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, as a supplementary agreement under the International Plant Protection Convention :

ARTICLE I

Purpose and Responsibility

1. The Contracting Governments, with the purpose of securing common and effective action in preventing the introduction and spread of pests of plants and plant products, promoting appropriate measures for their control, and facilitating trade while protecting the sustainability of agriculture and protecting plant, human and animal health and the environment, undertake to adopt the legislative, technical and administrative measures specified in this Agreement.

2. Each Contracting Government shall assume responsibility, without prejudice to obligations assumed under other international agreements, for the fulfilment within its territory of all requirements under this Agreement.

Amendments adopted by the Commission in 1983 to provide for an autonomous budget but not yet in force are included in footnotes to this document but are not reflected in the text.

3. Where appropriate, the provisions of this Agreement may be deemed by Contracting Governments to extend, in addition to plants and plant products, to storage places, packaging, conveyances, containers, soil and any other organism, object or material capable of harbouring or spreading plant pests, particularly where international transportation is involved.

ARTICLE II

- directly introducing into an organism, genetic material prepared outside it;
- fusing two or more cells beyond the taxonomic family to form live cells to produce new combinations of genetic material.

For the purposes of this definition, “organism” means any biological entity capable of transferring or replicating its genetic material, including sterile organisms, viruses and viroids;
