Dr. Brendan Nelson,

Dear Doctor,

Having watched the TV program Sixty Minutes on 19th November instant, my wife Mrs Rosemary Andersen forwarded a letter to Channel 9, a copy of which is faxed to you herewith. The letter reflects my views as well as my wife's on the question of the inferiority of boys' examination results compared with those of girls.

Would you kindly acknowledge receipt of this fax and let me know whether you accept the contents of this letter and the enclosed letter as a submission for consideration by your Committee.

Yours Faithfully,

D.C. Andersen

The reason why girls are beating boys in every subject in school is simple. In the 90's radical feminist teachers in the schools (with the approval of the Education Department) commenced the practice of positive discrimination against boys in the classroom, even to the extent of answering girls questions in class in preference to those of the boys.

As one of the boys interviewed said; "we're getting dragged down, put down. We see the girls getting further ahead because the teachers put them above boys and give them a better chance."

The solution is simple; separate the boys and girls in school.
