Dear John,

I am writing to you as a concerned Private Pilot and airline passenger.

I am not against Aviation Security, but when considering the requests of those who have the unenviable task of implementing security, spare a thought for those who will have to bear the cost.

We the end user wish to carry on with a minimum of inconvenience, loss of privacy and damage to our traditional way of life.

Thanking you for your time,

Yours,

R.S. (Stan) Wright.
