

Dear Sir/Madam,

7.4.2011

I'm writing to you as a concerned citizen regarding multiculturalism.

Over the centuries, many immigrants have settled to the task at hand, willing to observe the basic law of the land based on Judeo-Christian principles. These principles of law underpinned the need for rights of the individual that each person is a creation of God and deserves respect.

However shaking the basic foundations and principles of a society by introducing parallel laws is neither logical or reasonable. Favouring minority group laws for example, Sharia law, will not value to our daily lives. Please do not allow this divisiveness.

Please address the need to uphold our current laws which are the basis for this great nation of ours.
Yours sincerely,
