

R. W. Clay

23rd September 2003

Dear Mr Anderson,

Our local newspaper said that the House of Representatives Transport and Regional Services Committee is calling for written submissions on ideas to help curb the national road toll.

I would like to submit the following idea

To help cut back our road toll with its tragic deaths and injuries, why not govern the engines of Learner and JP plate owner drivers so that they cannot exceed 80 K.P.H. which is the maximum they are allowed till they are fully licenced.

The cars could be inspected every 6 months to ensure the engine had not had the governor removed.

Penalties could be applied for interference with the engine's governor.

Yours Sincerely,
R. W. Clay