Joint Standing Committee on Migration
Submission No. 69

To whom it may concern,

I am an English mother who with her husband's help came to this wonderful country Australia before coming here I was blind from God but had a longing in my heart for new beginnings I came here with my own values as we are a family are moving to a new country where we will fit in with this nation and not this nation with us, living in UK all my life I had slowly watched my country losing its identity because we cannot express ourselves anymore when it comes down to that my children cannot wear an England t-shirt on a special English day or fly the Union Jack flag in England through fears of offending other cultures this tells me who we are in our own country I have been in Australia 4 yrs and I've never felt more at home and free thanks to God and the good grace of the Australian people my children can now wear whatever they want because this country was built on true Christian values that we are all equal and free thank you God, Thanks for listening,
