

The whole idea of Multiculturalism simply cannot work in any society.

We can have people from different races and countries come together and live in harmony, but we can't have more than 1 culture that prevails over them all.

The idea of Multiculturalism is that many cultures can join together and coexist. But this is just wishful thinking.

When immigrants come to Australia, they must be prepared to submit to the culture of this nation.

It is impossible to have more than 1 culture dominating behavior in any society. If Multiculturalism really is applied, then everyone lives according different beliefs and customs at the same time.

So who is right and who is wrong? How do you impose laws or expect people to behave properly, if there is no prevailing culture?

Australians, and those who come to live here, must realize that everyone must live according to our culture, our laws, and our way of life. No one should come to this country and expect to impose their culture on the people of this nation.

That's not racism or bigotry - that's just common sense.
