Senator Claire Moore asked:

When will the final independent evaluation be publically released? Will it be released as originally written, or will it be edited by governments?

Answer:

The final report of the comparative evaluation of the two Western Australian (WA) National Disability Insurance Scheme trial site models is due to be provided to the WA Joint Steering Committee, (which consists of senior officials from First Ministers' departments, disability and mental health departments and consumers) by August 2016.

The independent evaluation is being undertaken by Stantons International and is overseen by the WA Joint Steering Committee.
