Senator Rachel Siewert asked:

I am interested in knowing why some people who actually wanted to be involved were not, in fact, invited to be involved or included.

Answer:

ORIMA Research's interviewing teams were rostered to multiple locations for specified times in both trial sites. People who agreed to participate in the survey were then screened into the surveys until quotas were filled.

Stakeholders and leadership groups from the trial sites of Ceduna and surrounds, and the East Kimberley were invited to participate in the evaluation.
