Question:

Senator GALLAGHER: Hallelujah! That is a first for the day, I reckon, where I am in the right spot at the right time. Is there a current Commonwealth government Fleet Vehicle Selection Policy?

Mr Sheridan: Yes, there is.

Senator GALLAGHER: Has it been recently updated? Can it be provided?

Mr Sheridan: We can certainly provide it, but it has not changed recently.

Senator McALLISTER: When was it promulgated? When was it first established?

Mr Sheridan: I have to take that on notice, but it has been the same for some considerable time.

Answer:

The Australian Government's Fleet Vehicle Selection Policy was first established and promulgated in 2004. The policy was later revised in 2010 and then 2011, with the last revision in April 2012.

The current Fleet Vehicle Selection Policy is available on the Finance website (<http://finance.gov.au/vehicle-leasing-and-fleet-management/fleet-guidance-and-related-material.html>).
