Chair
Senate Standing Committee on Environment
Communications & the Arts
PO Box 6100
Parliament House
CANBERRA ACT 2600

Dear Senator McEwen

At the Committee's Additional Estimates hearings on Monday 23 February, I undertook – in response to a request from Senator Troeth – to table a list of locations where mail was being held for areas affected by the recent Victorian bushfires.

The attached customer notice, which was published/circulated by Australia Post on 12 February, provides that information.

I would be grateful if it could be distributed to Senator Troeth and other members of the Committee, as required.

Yours sincerely

Mail deliveries to bushfire areas

Many areas in Victoria will be without mail delivery services for at least several days due to limited access and many homes being destroyed or damaged by the fires.

Where our staff can safely enter an area to deliver the mail they will, but many addresses are still inaccessible and we will be holding mail that we can't deliver until we receive notification from the customer to advise us of an alternative address. Please fill in a redirection form, available at all post offices, if you would like to take advantage of this service, which is free of charge for all bushfire affected areas.

Mail is being held for residents and businesses from fire affected areas at various points around the state. These are listed below:
