	Industry, Tourism and Resources		1/6/04	breakdown of your revenues from fees for services from ASDA and all other clients? I now move to the research projects that we do know about. Do you have any documents that reconcile that expenditure with the specific outcomes of those research projects? How many of those reports have been produced? Could you provide all of them to the committee? When is the next report due? At what point in the financial year do you provide those reports to DCITA? Dr Spencer—The last reports were provided a month or two back. Senator Lundy—For the previous financial year. Dr Spencer—No. There was a meeting of the committee involved in overseeing the particular projects requiring the reporting at that stage, and that is driven by DCITA's requirements. Senator Lundy—So that report should at least provide some clues as to how much money you are getting from DCITA. Dr Spencer—Yes, it will. Senator Lundy—In fact, it should itemise each project and the year in which the money was expended, shouldn't it? Dr Spencer—I think together with the applications and the other information you have requested you will get that information, yes.	received 29/7/2004
