Senator O'Neill asked on 26 February 2014, Hansard page 121

Question

Low SES National partnership

Senator O'NEILL: You mentioned some ethnographic studies that have resulted in case studies, I expect. Ms Hanlon: There have been a number of case studies that states and territories have provided through their annual reporting. Senator O'NEILL: Could you perhaps enlighten us with one of those? Ms Hanlon: I do not actually have those case studies on me at the moment. I can take that on notice.

Answer

Under the Low SES Schools Communities National Partnership, states and territories are required to provide case studies as part of their annual and progress reports. The most recent case studies can be accessed in the 2012 Annual Reports via the following links:
