Question Number: W919-07

Question:

Senator Wong asked in writing: Job Placement, Employment and Training. How are decisions about training made and implemented? What kind of training is provided?

Answer:

There is no prescribed service delivery model for the JPET programme. Providers are required to deliver flexible and holistic services to all JPET participants and those services need to be relevant to their individual needs. The services delivered are determined by providers and may include the provision of training.
