Defence portfolioDepartment of Defence*Pre-estimates briefing on the Portfolio Budget Statement and Annual Report*

15. Committee members attended a private briefing from Defence officers responsible for the PBS and Annual Report to gain a better understanding of these documents, their structure and outputs, the location and explanation of the various tables contained in the PBS and to determine a schedule and order for asking questions. The committee takes this opportunity to thank Defence for their assistance and willingness to assist the committee.

Proposed changes to the Department of Defence's Output structure

16. During this briefing, the committee was advised of proposed changes to Defence's outcome and output structure. The changes are outlined in the PBS.

17. During the hearing, a defence witness explained that the proposed changes were noted in the PBS to flag that Defence would have a new outcome structure which has been agreed to by the Minister for Finance and Administration. He explained:

The changes were agreed too late for us to be able to translate all of the information into this document this time around for two reasons. One was that we did not have enough time, but the second thing was that we were transitioning to an upgraded portfolio budgeting system. Our budgeting system, which we call BORIS, had just gone through a major upgrade and we judged that it was too risky to try in the short time frame to translate the information in here. We would rather do it in a measured way. So we have alerted you to that. What we plan to do in the additional estimates, the PAES, when we bring this back in December or January, is show you how we have converted the old structure into the new one, and the cross walk to explain that.⁹

18. The committee took this opportunity to refer to the briefing from Defence officers held prior to the hearings and suggested that a similar briefing would be helpful in light of the proposed restructure. The intention of another briefing would be to enable committee members to better 'track the outputs under the old system to the new system' in order to gain some familiarity with it and not waste time at the next round of estimates.¹⁰ A committee member also added that the next annual report would need to spell out the changes using the same terms, so that committee members could 'easily move from the annual report this year to the accounts for next year'.¹¹

19. With regard to the transition to the new structure, Defence informed the committee that it would be obliged to report in the old structure for its Annual Report for financial year 2006–2007. In response to concerns about the contents of the Annual Report, a Defence officer suggested:

What we can do in the new structure from 2007–08 onwards is show it to you in the current structure and in the revised structure. We could brief you on that before we have the hearing into the additional estimates.¹²

20. The committee indicated that such a proposal would be welcomed.

21. The committee acknowledged the presence at the hearings, of Mr Nick Warner, Secretary of the Department of Defence, and Air Chief Marshal, Angus Houston, AM, Chief of Defence Force (CDF).¹³

Secretary's opening statement

The report acknowledged the significant progress Defence has made over the past decade in a range of areas, most notably in military operations but also in policy development and a range of public sector reforms.

having acknowledged these achievements and successes, the review team made a series of recommendations about how Defence can improve its organisational efficiency and effectiveness. The report made 53 recommendations. The CDF and I, in consultation with the Defence service chiefs and group heads, agreed to implement 50 of the recommendations in full and two of the recommendations in part.

of the 50-plus recommendations we agreed, four key principles will underpin our approach to implementation: accountability and governance, support to our minister and government more broadly, people management and the need to reform our business systems. Clearer and more streamlined governance and accountability arrangements will assist us in maintaining a high operational tempo while also driving organisational reform and planning for the future.¹⁴

Chief of the Defence Force opening statement

23. Chief of the Defence Force, Air Chief Marshal Houston, gave the committee a comprehensive update on ADF operational achievements, and recruitment and retention issues, since the additional estimates hearings in February 2007.

24. Air Chief Marshal Houston informed the committee that:

Firstly, in terms of our operations broadly, we continue to maintain a busy tempo, with the government to date approving the overall deployment of about 3,850 people to nine overseas operating locations in 2007. We also have 450 personnel deployed on security tasks in our maritime protection zone and other personnel deployed on international engagement, including participation in exercises and foreign visits. Additionally, in preparation for APEC 2007, a forward headquarters element has been established in Sydney for liaison and coordination of Defence support to the APEC security task force. Each of these deployments are within the capability of our forces, are sustainable for the duration of the deployment and leaves us postured to meet a range of contingency requirements.

... On our progress with recruiting and retention: As you are aware, the ADF has been directed to grow to a full-time strength of 57,000 by 2016. Its current strength is about 51,000, so this represents an increase of 6,000, or just over 11.75 per cent, in ten years. To do this, we have to increase recruiting and improve retention. We have set ourselves a goal of increasing our recruiting intake for our full-time force from 4,677 to 6,500 per annum and reducing our separation rate from just over 11 per cent to below 10 per cent. We began looking at improving our recruiting in some depth in 2005. Already we have seen marked and improved recruiting performance.

Our first initiatives looked at stabilising key ranks within Army and Navy... [Within Navy] doctors, principal warfare officers, submarine warfare officers, underwater medicine qualified sailors, submarine and junior technical sailors are in particularly short supply, due in part to their attractiveness to the private professional organisations and industry. ... But it is not all bad and there are some encouraging signs that critical parts of our Navy workforce are on the road to recovery.¹⁵
