Senator KROGER—May I say it is fantastic looking out and seeing all our water features going again. It is good for the soul, I think. What costs were involved in recommissioning the ones back to the original mains and getting them working again? If you could take on notice if there were any structural requirements in bringing them back online, that would be great.

Answer

- 1 The cost to recommission the water features was $48,000.
- 2 There were no structural requirements in bring them back on line.
