28th July 2003.

To whom it may concern & hopefully it will concern you the reader,

I am a 44 year old male Australian & very proud to be born & born in this wonderful country.

I am a person writing in concern of the many wonderful & enriching people who grew up in State Government Homes, I am a result of the Government's best wishes for children who through no fault of their own were taken to another environment, another world, which to most could sometimes be called no man's land, no identity no name sometimes just a number.

I can say I am one of the grateful ones to a degree as my life has been thrown upside down inside out & now outside in.

I have had no assistance from the very great (Government) who are people just like you that are voted in by the public for the public with a heart for people.

My life has been so far a maze of mixed up jungles with no apparent hope in sight until I now at the age of 44 finally through much pain have discovered that any human being can achieve anything they want out of their life provided they actually know they have a life, believe you me I do understand one thing, State Wards fight for their very existence in life until & hopefully they do discover they are allowed to have one.

Suffering from Rejection, Fears too many to mention gambling lost marriage Bankrupt & now fighting my way home.

I ask one question, if I had had help, from Services from Govt groups would I have as much all this pain?

I don't know the answer to this question because there is no direct assistance for people with backgrounds of dysfunctional families.

I would like to finish by simply saying yes I am one of the blessed ones;

But what about the scars of my fellow brothers & sisters of State wards that didn't get a better start??

Where are they, do they struggle because they feel nobody still really cares for them, internally isolated, struggling through life when they don't really need to!

Every human being has a right to be free all I ask is the lonely the outcast, the guy or girl that doesn't fit into societies ~~and~~ mould - Ask them about their background & you might find some real answers to about why families are breaking down maybe grandparents who have been State Wards have tried to make a go of it & failed because what's their union image of family - NONE!!!

We all have a right to seek help & recover from our pain & move on & help others & in doing so.

All I am asking in closing is to take a good look at your neighbour, your workmate, the postman, your paymaster are they ex State Wards, What are their pains & dark thoughts that need to be expressed & need help in?

Could we please have recognition that our lives need attention & help when most State Wards wouldn't know what it really means to be loved - Really loved Yours faithfully
