

I support the labelling of palm oil on all products. Consumers require the information necessary to make informed choices when buying goods, including the purchasing of goods that is directly causing the extinction of a unique animal species.

Labelling should not only cover food items but also soaps, shampoos and other non-food products.

regards

Catherine Spencer