In the Field with the Centre for Orangutan Protection (COP) in Indonesia

Excerpts from COP reports:

Currently, our 3rd team still in the plantation. Orangutans are everywhere and cornered. It is very easy to kill them. We found orangutan in cage and ready to ship also.

.....

Our investigators found 1 more baby, 2 months old...arranging evacuation with Forestry Office tomorrow morning.

In general, the situation is very bad now, the worst maybe. Orangutans are cornered everywhere and very easy to catch them. According to plantation worker, he captured this baby 2 weeks ago and the mother escaped. He confidence (sic) that he can get more easily.

.....

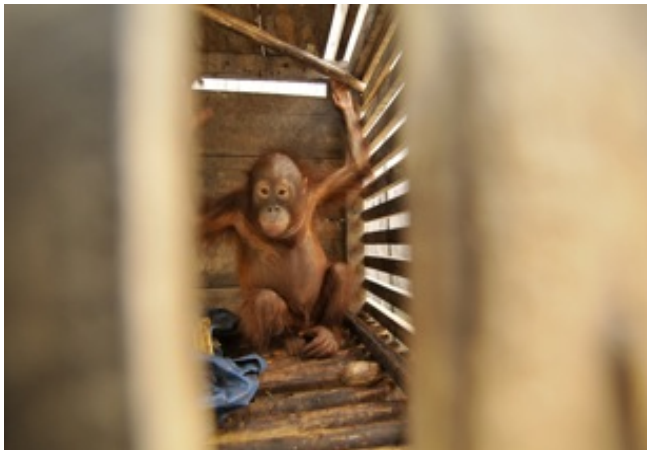

Rescued 2-month old orangutan baby.

January 2010 – Nine-year-old orangutan Pooh was kept in chains in a small wooden box at an illegal timber mill in Kalimantan (Indonesian Borneo) before he was rescued by the COP.

Evacuation of chained orangutan.

Young orangutan found in cage.

This orangutan, less than 12 months old, was found at the home of a plantation worker. February 2010.
