

I think if people can see the label then they will have awareness of how much is being taken from the animals. the food companies may feel the need to cut down palm oil usage in products. I think you should find it in your heart to help them, are these innocent animals lives worth ruining for oil? money? I really hope not.