

Hi,

I am writing to express my support for the compulsory labeling of the ingredient palm oil on all products that contain it. It is important that the public are able to determine if they are purchasing a product that encourages the destruction of orangutan habitat to make way for palm oil plantations.

There are many other ingredients that have less impact on the environment and its inhabitants. There should be no reason why this information is hidden from the public. The public have the right to know what they are buying so they can make clear consumer choices.

I trust you will do your best to support the mandatory labeling of palm oil on all products.

Regards,

Anna Mezzetti
