

This submission is to request that all products sold in Australia that contain palm oil should have mandatory labelling showing that the product contains palm oil to give the Australian people the choice to not support palm oil production.

As an avid supporter of the "Orang-utan Australia Project" and an animal lover, I always check labels on products I am purchasing to make sure it does not contain palm oil because of the threat to their habitat that the planting of palm oil plantations creates. Knowing that even though I am being diligent, I cannot always make the correct choice in purchasing palm oil free products makes me feel that my rights to know ingredients in a product are being taken away from me.

Please consider this request taking in the fact that innocent animals are dying at an alarming rate and certain species will become extinct soon because of human greed. Animals have as much right to live in their own natural habitat in peace without us ripping it down.

Kind Regards
