

To whom it may concern ,

Im writing to add my voice of dissent . The idea of making homebirth illegal is very bad news. In a modern country like Australia with access to and education about the birthing process there is no reason why birthing at home should not be a choice for women. I had my child at home last year and think every day how lucky we all were to be able to experience the most important event in our lives in the surrounds of our home with only close friends around. Please think about this issue and make sure the legislation does not go through!!!
