

Is there anything about having a hearing loss or being deaf that frustrates you?

No i love being deaf and im very happy but its very expensive being deaf.. you need to buy special deaf devices to assist with everyday living.

Have you ever feel frustrated at the cost of your or your families hearing loss?

Like i said before its very expensive being deaf.. you need to buy hearing aids even batteries too for hearing aids, tty, tv decorder for subtitles, light flash alarm for baby cry, phone, door, smoke alarm, interpreter, etc.. list just go on.. they cost hundreds if not, thousand dollars over our life..and we already struggle with it on top of our normal living expenses, its not fair on us..

What i would like to see happening is that everything that deaf people uses for their everyday living are to be provided free.

* Have you ever been upset by the difficulty of getting access to a hearing service or audiologist?

Nah, dont want to use their service.. dont need it..

* If you have been deaf since a kid, have you ever wished you could stay with Australian Hearing after you were 21 years old?

nah, dont need it.