

Hi,

As a mother of a deaf daughter, I have many concerns for her right now but more so in the future, for the cost of technology she will need for the rest of her life, really scares me.

The issues of the over 21's losing support, poor quality captions, and cost of accessories like loop systems, alarm clocks, vibrating smoke alarms, neckloops for iPods, etc.

I think these kids face enough challenges then to have a financial burden of this at the age of only 21 seems very tough.

Cheers

Renee
