

To the decision makers

An associate & myself recently decided to support the Solar programme as we had the time & capital necessary. We have successful business qualifications prior to the decision to support solar from an environment aspect as well an investment .

We have committed a sizeable sum of funds to the purchase of necessary hardware from overseas[we don't have an option there] As forward planning is necessary we have decided to continue with forward purchasing as well as training & employing staff to carry out our works in progress . The level to which we take the business relies on government policy. Until this is known we along with many other dedicated people in the industry are hesitant to take the business to the scale of which it is capable. Be assured there are a lot of businesses have already taken this step and invested large sums of money.

Someone in this decision area [gov't] should have a look at Solar alerts on Google There are major announcements every day on start up projects [overseas] We are only talking the domestic market here in this great country

Lets be bold & really make the rest of the world see we are not hicks as far as Solar investment is concerned.

Sunny regards
