

I have small business in Western Australia and I am finding it hard to market installation as most people seem to think on how long it will take to get there money back.

When they are told how long they back off and there reaction is that the Government is not doing enough to help by giving incentives for the Environment so why should they be concerned about it, and all commented about the Feed In Tariff.

The Feed In Tariff is a great idea if the Government really means what they say about the 20% reduction in carbon gases.
