

The Secretary.

What an absolute disgrace this media bombardment of our children and young people is. So bad is it that it could easily be our biggest challenge and our biggest shame. Billboards, music, TV, Magazines is overwhelming our generation with explicit and degrading images with the purpose of sexualising the audience. Have we lost our senses or are we just too weak to confront the people who produce this content. I can supply much evidence from various sources that prove the destructive impact this material has on children. Our own wisdom should be telling us the obvious. What will it take to wake us up from our pathetic complacency.

Ian Bell