

Dear Committee

I find it very disturbing with the current trends in the younger end of the culture. The sleazy outfits paraded by young girls who are being exploited by stupid parents or greedy, immoral commercial interests is not in the kids' interests, nor in the wider cultural interests. Apart from making kids look like two bob tarts, "the look" contravenes all sense of decency. Girls should not be made to model hookers to catch the public eye. There has to be greater control from a watchdog with the kids and the public's interests at heart, otherwise we will see our culture sliding further into the sewer.
