Subject: Re: Inquiry into the Price of Petrol in Australia

the only way i feel disadvantaged is that i can't afford to be paying these ridiculous prices. i have quit my job as it was taking up more then half my wages and others were talking of following suit.

If they bump it up to $2 a litre, it'll put more australians out of work, i'm sure of it. a lot of us do have to use our own car as there is no transport in alot of rural areas, can't car pool as there is no one to car pool with. I'm sure i'm not just speaking for myself here. how can people put up with it? apperently in the u.s.a they had a revolt over there due to prices being bumped up by about 3 cents a gallon. again, apperently they dropped the prices again. And apperently we are one of the highest prices in the world for fuel. i want to work, but i don't want half of my wages gone in fuel. i do appreciate your input, i was actually starting to think i wasn't going to get a reply. but thankyou heaps, just goes to show some people do listen. i hope you guys can put your heads together to stop this, i really do. i'm all stressed out as i can't make ends meet no matter what i do, wether i work or not work at the moment, i'm also hoping things improve for me and quite possibly thousands others in the same vote.
thankyou again for replying.
