

Dear Senators

An issue which I forgot to refer to in my submission is the growing tendency of all whom we pay by credit card to demand processing fees, which will only increase over time.

We find it harder and harder to pay directly, some places do not easily give you a postal address to pay bills and now we have credit charges on top, allegedly due to bank charges on them

When will the greed of the corporates cease? When will the national begin to realise that sometime they must side with Labor to ensure better practices for their members, for consumers, for non mega wealthy Australians?

I partly grew up in Korweinguboorra and in Heyfield, two different rural areas of Victoria. These practices even offend my country friends yet the Howard government sits quietly while they get worse and we suffer even more
