

Hi i am writing to view my feelings on new tax law 23ag in regards to overseas workers income i have lived in australia for the last six years and have. a wife a a young family based in australia. this new tax law is introduced this would cripple my family which in return i do not want i took employment with a my company overseas as the vessal i was working on left australian waters so it was either go with the ship or be unemployed as there is not a big market in australia for my decipiline so i opted for overseas .so if these new taxlaws come in i realy don't know what will happen i could be unemployed or take some other austalians job then he is unemployed. or mov my 4kids overseas and wife thus then the australian goverment looses the forgien income comming into the country i work with a lot of guys in the oilfield that have the same views as me lets hope this gets throwen out and keep australia out of the current down turn.

Regards
