

TO: The Standing Committee on Finance and Public Administration

I am writing concerning the decision to hold a plebiscite for a republic in Australia. This country was founded on a system that best protects it. I am proud to be an Australian knowing we have one of the best government systems in the world that best safeguards it. Our constitutional monarchy best protects this country from the government abuses which take place in many other countries and have left this country one of the most respected and admired countries to live in the world. I would like to raise my strong objection to having a plebiscite on a republic.

Yours sincerely,

D. MacDonald.
