RE: Plebiscite for an Australian Bill 2008

Dear Sir/Madame,

This is Australia and we have referendum's not plebiscite's.

If whoever it may be wants to change our system a referendum is the only way to proceed, people cannot vote on some vague idea of a republic when we know nothing about it.

First you must tell us what is wrong with the present system and how a new setup would be much better in its place.

Why I am wasting my time with this, I have no idea when the whole world is in dire straights and I am just about bankrupt.

I will be writing to my local member about this complete waste of public money by our politicians.

Regards,

Garry Kennedy
