

The proposed Free Trade Agreement withy the United States of America would seem to offer little in the way of any real benefit to Australia.

Imports of beef to the States are limited, sugar banned but the USA expects unfettered access to Australian markets. This is not a free trade agreement and should not be implemented.

A Stanford