

Please don't gag the artists of Australia for the sake of violent recalcitrants who will find a forum for their divisive ideas whether or not it is illegal. If a group is prepared to mass murder in the name of ideology is there really point legislating against voicing the rhetoric behind it? Differences of opinion in our society make for equilibrium and legislating to ensure that the central Government's policies cannot be criticised is an extreme and dangerous precedent.

Madeline Fountain.
Belrose NSW