

Senator Lynn Allison has let me know of this enquiry. Why isn't it made public that we can have a direct say to enquiries?

I am writing to strongly object to these unnecessary laws and the disgusting way in which they have been rammed through without public discussion and consultation while opposing Member after Member has been Parliamentarily gagged. I have been following on the ABC and the whole procedure has been so close to criminal it's not funny. Next, I expect they'll remove Question Time and Parliament from any public scrutiny at all.

There is no real reason to rush a single one of these Bills through. There are enough powers and resources to deal with any threat already. We're surely not going to let someone cause some catastrophic event because some new laws weren't introduced. If there's a threat we should already have acted.

In the meantime, let proper disclosure and debate occur regarding the new Bills.

Sincerely,
Russell Langfield,
Kimberley,
