

To whom it may concern,

It is my desire that marriage should continue to be defined as a relationship that exists between two people of the opposite sex only. To alter this definition to include marriage between two people of the same sex would only further erode what I believe to be the true concept of marriage. That is a genuine lifelong commitment to a person of the opposite sex. This is what I firmly believe on the bases of my Christian belief as made evident in God's word the bible. I am pleased that much of our countries heritage, cultural and law was historically established in biblical concepts including marriage. I would like to submit that marriage continue to be between two people of the opposite sex.

I thank you for your time
David Bosma