

We're in a world that complain about the moral fibre declining, and we are persistently hit with people and originations want to do this with out the thought and care of what we stand for on this earth.

Marriage is defined the union between man and woman and I feel and GOD would back me up that this should not change. What right to gays have to change the way marriage has been seen for thousands of years, should we also go as far as change the laws about theft and murder to keep criminals happy. Laws are not there to make people happy but to provide a guidance to what is right and wrong as man can and has distorted that so many times.

What new right will same sex marriage create for them, will it change the ways those opposed to it see them as a couple. No.....

If we as a people don't want the moral fibre of this world to decline we have to stick to the standard which is deemed wholesome and proper.

Man with out woman can not create life and woman with out man can not create it either and that way men and women were create to be together. When we condone things outside the standard that has been in place for thousands of year, we ok the decline of the standard of the community, our minds and souls

Government should not be wasting money to pander to the whim of a few so they can create significance for a brief time in those around them. Or are they wanting justify there sin in the eyes of GOD, Dear GOD, have not sinned for we are married. But GOD sees same sex relationship as sin.

I say No to same sex marriages.
