

Dear Committee,

I am concerned voter that wants to preserve the current definition of marriage.

Marriage is for husband and wife which is the natural order and which has served this country and mankind well up until this time. Marriage between man and women also provides protection for children and this is critical in our society at this time.

I can assure you that I speak for the wider community when I say that the majority of Australians wish to retain the current definition of marriage between husband and wife. Let's not listen to the vocal minority but rather govern for the wider Australian community and the views they hold.

Thanks and regards
Chris Shaw
