

Submission on Marriage Equality.

Marriage must remain between a man and a woman exclusively. The heterosexual family is the main stay of Australian society and remains so because it is based on that man woman union. The social benefits to the nation are enormous, in man woman relationships children are happier and will usually grow to be productive and responsible adults.

The issue with man man and woman woman relationships, is that most are temporary, admittedly there are some permanent relationships but these are few. What then will be the issues for children that become unfashionable when relationships break up.

Even if a relationship is permanent what issues do children have when their parents are single gender? It is an unnatural situation to say the least.

The real issue of this bill is found in the homosexual lobby's constant push to have homosexuality, transgender etc. 'normalised' The behaviour can never be normal irrespective of any law or definition change. Any such union would produce nothing worthwhile for this country except perhaps a political feather in the hat.

/2....

It is not possible for any other type of marriage to be equal to that between a man and a woman. Any other form of marriage is barren and hollow. In the long run it will prove a disaster for the children and a total genealogical mess. Another burden on the taxpayer when the problems require money in an attempt to fix the many problems that will come.

It is most strongly pressed that this Committee reject the notion that any other type of marriage other than between a man and a woman is valid.

This Committee owes it to our country to stop a foolish proposal in its early stages and save future generations the problems this selfish proposal will cause.
