

To Whom It May Concern,

Marriage is a sacred union which must be kept so, unless the downfall of society is what future generations aim for. I am      years of age, being a member of the future generations of Australia and am disheartened to witness our own society's ethics reduced to flawed thinking and misguided actions.

Several marriages celebrated even now withhold the importance of commitment as we see separation and divorce on the rise resulting in countless broken homes.

Let us make a change now before it is too late. Let's support the sanctity of marriage as it always was intended and always should be; between a man and a woman.

I have hope that one day the world will have a change of heart and mind; to see truth and goodness as it genuinely is. Only then will this world of ours have peace and justice as God intends for it.
