

I have moved to Australia to be with my partner, and love living in such a wonderful and beautiful country. However it is sad that a first world country in the 21st Century with the friendliest people still has discrimination in its constitution. I look forward to the day that we have the choice to get married if we choose to.